The Personal Cloud Arrives

ABSTRACT

BIOGRAPHY

Drew brings over 15 years of product management experience to SugarSync. Drew has experience building both complex enterprise software systems and high-growth consumer Internet services. Most recently, Drew was the Director of Product Management at TimeBridge, where he led the development of the company's personal scheduling assistant, integrating calendar systems across companies and calendar systems. Prior to TimeBridge, Drew was the Senior Product Manager of Yahoo Mail, where he was a key member of the team that launched the all-new Yahoo Mail application, which included unlimited storage, an interactive user experience, and a next-generation mail search platform. Drew's early career was focused on enterprise software, where he led product development teams at Siebel Systems, Sales.com, and Accenture. Drew received an M.B.A from the Stanford Graduate School of Business and a B.S. from the University of Utah School of Business.
