ABSTRACT

On Location Data Management Session with Tim Feess

BIOGRAPHY

Born and raised in the surf and skate culture of Santa Cruz, California, Sam's interest in video production began while making skateboard videos with his friends. At Loyola Marymount's School of Film and Television, he focused his studies on cinematography and documentary film, while also continuing to learn about all aspects of the filmmaking process.

Since then, he has used his skills as a Director, Cinematographer, and Editor to work and live abroad while continuing to grow his production company Will Call Cinematic. His work has led him to live abroad for over a year in rural Panama with a medical non-profit, tour for 3 years with Major Lazer and Diplo, documenting their world tours and directing several music videos for them, and a variety of other projects ranging from scripted feature films to corporate videos for companies like Ghirardelli Chocolate and IBM.

Today, he is back in Santa Cruz, re-connecting with the community he grew up in while continuing to travel to where ever that next project is.
